Section C: Course Aim and Learning Outcomes

Intended programme aim and learning outcomes are listed below.

C1 Course Aim

Course Aim

The BCSC Diploma in Shopping Centre Management is designed to provide students with an understanding of the shopping centre management industry and associated retail sector. The course is primarily targeted at existing or aspiring shopping centre managers, retailers and real estate professionals wishing to specialise in retail or shopping centre management. The course is principally focused upon UK practice and most case study examples are drawn from the UK shopping centre industry.

C2 Course Learning Outcomes

A. Knowledge and understanding

Learning outcomes:

- By the end of the course students should be able to demonstrate knowledge and understanding of:
- A1) The principles of marketing in a shopping centre management context.
  - A2) The principles of retailing and the relationship between the retail industry and shopping centres.
  - A3) The principles of planning, operating and managing a retail or shopping centre business.
  - A4) The principles of shopping centre design within the constraints of town and country planning legislation.
  - A5) The identification and management of resources in shopping

Learning; teaching and assessment methods

Teaching/learning methods and strategies

Acquisition of knowledge in the modules of the course is promoted through distance education resources including customised text material, core textbooks, web based material and communication channels. These are complemented and supplemented by tutorials, guest lectures, seminars and team project work in face-to-face sessions and site visits.

In the project module, self directed learning and problem solving combined with supervisor consultation further enhances knowledge and understanding.

Throughout, the student is encouraged to undertake independent study

A. Knowledge and understanding
centres. A6) The principles of, and factors influencing, property income generation and capital value enhancement. A7) The elements of law relating to the management and operation of a shopping centre.	and enquiry to broaden their knowledge and understanding of the subject. Assessment In 20 credit modules (excluding the Project module) students complete a mid-semester coursework artefact and an end of semester 2 hour unseen examination. 10 credit modules are assessed by a single assessment artefact. The project module (20 credits) in the final semester of the course requires the student to produce a project of original research, which is conceived and conducted by the student. The student is required to submit a 1,000 word assignment detailing the nature of their project during the semester and then a 6,000 word project at the end of the semester.

B. Cognitive skills
Learning outcomes:	Learning; teaching and assessment methods
By the end of the course students should be able to demonstrate how to: B1) Apply marketing and business theory to a retail context. B2) Evaluate and appraise the effect of factors influencing the value of retail property B3) Identify and explain the key issues affecting shopping centre design within the wider town and country planning context B4) Recognise and apply the law in the context of shopping centre management	Teaching/learning methods and strategies These skills are developed through prescribed reading, seminars, coursework and detailed feedback. The reading includes core texts, papers and relevant web-based material. Web-based discussion forums between tutors and students offer an opportunity for students to discuss topics and exercises. In addition tutors facilitate these discussions and provide formative assessment for the student group. In the Project module students gain more detailed individual formative assessment. Assessment

B. Cognitive skills

Coursework varies across the modules but collectively develops and assesses all cognitive skills. Summative feedback is provided on all coursework and web-based answer guides provide more generic detail.

Intellectual skills are assessed through coursework assignments; these vary in nature and include problems, essays, reports, appraisals and project report. Unseen examinations also test these skills.

C. Practical and professional skills

Learning outcomes:

By the end of the course students should be able to demonstrate how to:

- C1) Summarise the planning, control and management processes for the use and maintenance of property, systems, services and staff in a shopping centre.
- C2) Locate information sources and assemble and present information in a variety of contexts.
- C3) Collect, record, interpret and analyse data.
- C4) Assess and analyse management and negotiation techniques.
- C5) Prepare and write a report.

Learning; teaching and assessment methods

Teaching/learning methods and strategies

Learning outcomes 2-3 and 5 are particularly developed through the Project Module. Detailed guidelines are provided and explained on the VLE and in seminar sessions.

Learning outcomes 1, 4 and 5 are variously developed in face-to-face syndicate exercises and coursework within the taught modules and 4-5 are extended through the assignment and project preparation.

Assessment

Assessment of these skills is undertaken mainly through module assignments and examinations, which differ according to the module.

Learning outcomes 3 and 4 are particularly assessed through unseen examination.
